Georgetown Is Given Worst Drubbing in Years.

Fordham administered a decisive trimming to the Georgetown team yesterday, swamping the Hilltoppers under a shower of hard drives, and coming away with a big total of 21 runs to 7 for the Hill-

The visitors administered one of the worst drubbings in the history of Georgetown, and the way the New Yorkers slapped the best shoots of the entire Georgetown pitching staff about the yard was enough to remind one forcefully of a slaughterhouse on a busy day. Seven home runs were made, four of Reitz, rf. them by the visitors and three by the! boys from across the creek. Fordham annexed eighteen safe drives off the combined deliveries of Balzer, Wymard, Flan-tallies they could make. Balzer started off for Georgetown, but he was given a terrific bombardment and was wild besides, so the coach yanked him out in a hurry and sent in Wymard to finish the second inning. At tms stage of the contest the score was 7 to 2.

The visitors used three twirlers also Mahoney, knowing that he was needlessly wasting his arm by staying in the box after his clubmates had obtained a seven-run lead by the end of the fourth inning, retired to the center garden, and Kehoe took his place on the mound. Kehoe is about seven feet tall, and has the speed of an express train on the ball, which he uses as his standby, and "Cy," as the Georgetown players dubbed him, was all to the good, not a hit being made off him in the three innings he worked. Quinn finished the game for Fordham, and Georgetown made all of the hits and runs off him in one round, the last, a batting rally giving them three runs and four hits.

Fordham Excels in Fielding. In fielding Fordham again outclassed

Georgetown, but not by any large margin, the difference being mainly in the seasoned way in which the New York players cantered about the field pulling off their plays with the greatest of ease. Gibson at short for the home team made some good plays, his pickup and throw to first of Scanlon's blow to the short field in the sixth being the feature of the afternoon. Hunt in the right garden and Connelly in center, handled some difficult swats to the outfield in a manner to entitle them to honorable mention. The Georgetown team will play Ursi-

The whole trouble lay in what looked that his men had been unable to find Pinder, the complainant, or the three or four other State's witnesses of the alleged assault.

It was then that Judge Mulqueen rose up, and metaphorically speaking, smote

"The court understands and believes," said the judge, "that the complaining witness and the other witnesses under subpoena for the State in this case have been lured from the jurisdiction of the court I doubt the defendant's good faith in asking for a continuance to this date. Nugent took a hand at this point, and he and Johnson talked at the same time, until Judge Mulqueen rapped for order and said it had all been fixed-it was $5,000 or the Tombs. Whereupon a court officer led Johnson away. Nugent was sure it wouldn't take him long to get the necessary bond, so Johnson was taken to the detention pen in the Criminal Courts building.

The judge recalled the prisoner's petition of the morning, and said that he would accept the $3,000 cash bail offered

"I made that offer this morning, your honor," Johnson said, "and I had the money in my clothes to back it up. But since then I have had to pay some lawyers' fees and one thing and another, and I have just a little over $2,500 left. Won't you reduce the bail to $2,500 cash?" The judge talked the matter over with the district attorney, and finally announced that he would accept the bond offered temporarily - until to-morrow morning, and adjourned the case until that time. Johnson was told to be ready with $3,000 in cash then.
